Alabama Head Injury Task Force News

Survivor Spotlight – Randy Hunt, Roanoke, AL

On the evening of March 29, 2013, I fell out of a moving vehicle. I was taken by EMT to the E.R. where they airlifted me to Columbus Hospital and put me in a medically induced coma due to severe brain swelling and 8 hematomas. A drainage port was put in to release the swelling. I was in the hospital from March 29 to May 3 then was transported to Shepard Hospital in Atlanta where I gained consciousness. When I awoke from the coma, the doctor asked me how I was doing and if I knew my name. I said, “My name is Crimson. Crimson Tide.” One thing the brain injury didn’t take away from me was my humor and it has helped me a lot in my long recovery over the past 9 ½ years. I stayed at the Shepard Center in Atlanta for 2 ½ months. After being released, I spent 2 weeks at the Shepard Pathways Day Program. We attended classes every day, all day; classes to write, talk, and read every day. We also did physical activities, like walking up and down and back upstairs. There were lots of tests, which I didn’t really enjoy, but I worked so hard that I graduated 3 days ahead of schedule. They said they had never had anyone progress so fast in their program. I told them that I really wanted to go home, to be back in “God’s Country” because it is Crimson and White there, and I was in Georgia which wasn’t.

I met with April Turner in 2015, and she got me started going to the AHIF support groups. This helped me to walk on my own two feet and got me to talk to people without wanting to kill them. I could see that the Lord had opened my eyes in my heart to see that I was going to get better and that it was only up from here. I learned how to slow down and concentrate, and to know that things will get better, it just will take time.

I was in the Army National Guard in 1986 for 13 years until 1999 when I ended service after 13 years to be with my family. I have worked as an electrician since I was thirteen, and post injury I have been working at my own business as a handyman. I enjoy it because I get to help people and use the many skills I have gained over the years. I have been living independently since my injury, which is something I am proud of.

Without the Lord’s presence in my life, I wouldn’t be here today. And without Angels in my life like April Turner, I definitely wouldn’t have made it through this long process of recovery. I know that I have a purpose on this earth.
